If the GEC is a breeder, he/she should not breed more than one litter per year. It is preferable that the GEC not be an active breeder.

Recommendations as to training, behavior modification, diet, grooming, classes, reproduction, general health issues may be asked of the GEC. In this case, the GEC should again strive to direct the owners to the appropriate resources.

If contacted by individuals regarding a problem they may have with a breeder, then the GEC should encourage open communication between the parties but should not attempt to mediate or become involved in any way. Often times the GEC may know who the breeder is from the conversation or the area in which the individual resides, but complete diplomacy, objectivity and confidentiality must be maintained. In the case of written correspondence or email communication regarding a problem, the GEC must forward the communication and proposed response to the President for review.
