JUDGES COMMENTS

When I was told that I was to judge the national specialty, June 2006 seemed an impossible time to wait. It was years in the future; would the time ever come? It was worse than waiting for Christmas when I was a child. Show time did finally arrive, and what a treat it was! It was well worth all the waiting!

The fairgrounds and the actual ring area were just lovely. As someone from the southwest desert, all the greenery and trees makes for a real change for me.

My focus from the beginning was to balance the combination of type and soundness, as I never want to sacrifice either, a difficult proposition for sure. I was fortunate to find both in many of the exhibits shown to me. Many decisions, as to be expected in competition of this caliber, were made on the most minor of points. I had several classes, especially the Best of Breed group, where I just wanted to stop and give everyone a ribbon. Several dogs that I would be proud to own were not able to receive the recognition they deserve on this particular day. The junior puppy dog class was also of particular note with the depth of quality in these babies.

I am amazed at the improvement of front movement, coming toward the judge. Gone are the days of most exhibits doing something peculiar with their front legs, whether throwing elbows, flipping pasterns, or winging those feet out.

Side gait was more difficult to assess. The grass was a bit too long for our small dogs, with the result that most showed me more height of front leg lift and bend of pastern than I like to see. Heads and mouths were also a pleasant surprise with very few oddly set eyes or poorly placed teeth. Pelts and coats were also very good, with only a very few lacking the proper thickness and texture.

The problems I did find were the problems that I'm afraid will be with us for some time to come: the drag of our breed, thick, short and stuffy. Several exhibits also paid the price of lack of condition. I have large hands, so if I have to struggle to span a dog, it's too big. This breed must be longer than it is tall, with a racy outline, long flattish rib and the proper angulation to give the open side gait and the attempt to converge to a center line that will allow it to do the job it was bred for.

I will close with a heartfelt thank you to all the people who worked so hard to make this show run so smoothly. This can not be an easy task to commit oneself to, and your efforts are much appreciated. I must also thank the members of BTCA for inviting me to judge this year. I am ever honored by your support.

Harriet Haydon

PS in reading over my comments on my placments, they seem very similar, class after class. I was looking for certain features that I consider essential, and I wanted to recognize them in the dogs that won under me. I hope they are of some value. – HH
